DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 1-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Masui et al. (US 2002/0196717 A1) in view of Brown III et al. (6,038,636).

Consider claims 1 and 7, Masui et al. teach a moving image recording apparatus for recording moving image data on a recording medium, said moving image recording apparatus comprising: a judgment device for judging whether a record format of said recording medium is suitable for recording said moving image data ([0215]); but fail to teach a recording medium controller for controlling operation of said recording medium, said recording medium controller reformatting said recording medium with a high-speed record format suitable for the record of said moving image data when said judgment device judges that said record format is unsuitable for recording said moving image data.

Brown III et al. teach a recording medium controller for controlling operation of said recording medium, said recording medium controller reformatting said recording medium with a high-speed record format suitable for the record of said moving image data when said judgment device judges that said record format is unsuitable for recording said moving image data (col. 14, lines 21-27). Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to incorporate reformatting into the apparatus because it allows the memory to be reused.

Consider claims 2 and 8, Brown III et al. further teach a moving image recording apparatus, wherein said recording medium controller detects the presence or absence of existing data in said recording medium when said record format is unsuitable for recording said moving image data (col. 14, lines 21-27).

Consider claims 3 and 9, Brown III et al. further teach a moving image recording apparatus, further comprising: an internal memory for temporarily storing said existing data; and an internal memory controller for recording said existing data recorded on said recording medium onto said internal memory when said record format is unsuitable for recording said moving image data (col. 14, lines 37-45).

Consider claims 4 and 10, Brown III et al. further teach a moving image recording apparatus, wherein said recording medium controller records said existing data recorded on said internal memory onto said reformatted recording medium (col. 14, lines 37-45).

Consider claim 5, Masui et al. teach a method for recording moving image data on a recording medium, said method comprising the steps of: (a) detecting a record format of said recording medium; (b) judging whether said record format of said recording medium is suitable for recording said moving image data ([0215]); and Brown III et al. teach (c) reformatting said recording medium with a high-speed record format suitable for recording said moving image data when said record format is judged to be unsuitable for recording said moving image data (col. 14, lines 21-27).

Art Unit: 2621

Consider claim 6, Brown III et al. further teach a method, further comprising the steps of: (d) detecting the presence or absence of existing data recorded on said recording medium (col. 14, lines 21-27), when said record format is judged to be unsuitable for recording said moving image data; (e) temporarily evacuating said existing data to an internal memory when said existing data is in said recording medium (col. 14, lines 37-45); and (f) reconstructing said existing data evacuated to said internal memory in said reformatted recording medium (col. 14, lines 37-45).
